Homeowners are typically responsible for costs to repair or replace service lines on their property. Repair or replacement of these lines often have significant costs associated with excavation, replacing damaged outdoor property (i.e. trees, plants, sidewalks).

Example: A sewer line failed underground, reportedly from tree root growth. Total loss: $10,500

Service Line Coverage provides coverage for damage to service lines if the damage is on your property. It also includes out-of-pocket living expenses if you become unable to occupy your home (due to a covered loss) during repair or replacement.

Contact your insurance broker for more information.
